Analysis: I reviewed the captioned legislation. There were only two provisions which appeared to be of concern. The first was ~~a bill~~ which authorized the Defense Department to charge customers for the receipt of secure telecommunications equipment.  advised, however, that this represented merely the continuation of present practice.

There was also a concern that this bill might affect the question about DoD IR&D (independent research and development) and B&P (bid and proposal) costs raised by the last defense appropriations legislation. Upon further review, however, I determined that this consideration would not be an issue in the authorization legislation.

Accordingly, I called Tracey Lawler and indicated that there was no Agency objection to the bill.

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20301

Honorable Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr.
Speaker of the House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Mr. Speaker:

There is forwarded herewith legislation, "To authorize appropriations for fiscal year 1984 for the armed forces for procurement, for research, development, test, and evaluation, and for operation and maintenance, to prescribe personnel strengths for such fiscal year for the armed forces and for civilian employees of the Department of Defense, and for other purposes."

In accordance with the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, we are also submitting herewith, as separate legislation, a similar request for authorization of appropriations for fiscal year 1985.

These proposals are part of the Department of Defense legislative program for the 98th Congress and the Office of Management and Budget advises that enactment of these proposals would be in accord with the program of the President.

Title I provides procurement authorization for the military departments and the Defense Agencies and for the United States share of the cost of the acquisition of the Airborne Early Warning and Control System by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in amounts equal to the budget authority included in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984. It contains a provision that extends for fiscal year 1984 the authority to waive certain costs and to assume certain liability in connection with the NATO AWACS program. It also contains a provision authorizing the Department to provide secure voice communications systems and related items throughout the Government on either a reimbursable or non-reimbursable basis and authorizes the appropriation of funds for a special classified program.

Title II provides for the authorization of each of the research, development, test, and evaluation appropriations for the military departments and the Defense Agencies in amounts equal to the budget authority included in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984. The authorization contains a provision that authorizes the appropriation of funds that are necessary to cover increased pay costs and other employee benefits to preclude the necessity of submitting a request for a supplemental authorization for such non-discretionary personnel costs.

Title III provides for authorization of the operation and maintenance appropriations of the military departments and the Defense Agencies in amounts equal to the budget authority included in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984. The authorization contains a provision that authorizes the appropriation of funds that are necessary to cover increased pay costs, unbudgeted increases in fuel costs, and inflation in the cost of activities covered by title III. Title III also contains a provision that authorizes the Department of Defense to provide support to the 1984 Games of the XXIII Olympiad to be held in Los Angeles.

Title IV prescribes the end strengths for active duty personnel in each component of the armed forces as required by section 138(c)(1) of title 10, United States Code, in the numbers provided for by the budget authority and appropriations requested for these components for fiscal year 1984.

Title V provides for average strengths of the Selected Reserve of each reserve component of the armed forces as required by section 138(b) of title 10, United States Code, in the numbers provided for by the budget authority and appropriations requested for the Department of Defense in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984. Title V also prescribes the end strengths for reserve component members on full-time active duty for the purpose of administering the reserve forces and provides for an increase in the number of certain commissioned officers who may be serving on active duty in support of the reserve components.

Title VI provides for civilian personnel end strengths for each component of the Department of Defense as required by section 138(c)(2) of title 10, United States Code, in the numbers provided for by the budget authority in appropriations requested for the Department of Defense in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984.

Title VII provides for the average military training student loads as required by section 138(d)(1) of title 10, United States Code, in the numbers provided for this purpose in the President's budget for fiscal year 1984.

Title VIII consists of two general provisions. Section 801 repeals section 1110 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1983, which prohibits the consolidation of the military transportation commands. Section 802 amends title 10, United States Code, by adding a new section, 2482, which authorizes the Department to furnish reciprocal communications support or related supplies and services.

Sincerely,

Enclosure
